

Are you a family day care provider?

You may be eligible for payment for the food and snacks you provide to children in your care.

The New York State Department of Health's CHILD AND ADULT CARE FOOD PROGRAM (CACFP) pays for meals and snacks served to children up to age 13 enrolled in family day care homes. The major focus of CACFP is to serve nutritious meals and snacks in day care homes which care mainly for children from low income households. However, all day care home providers meeting eligibility guidelines may take part in CACFP, whether or not they care for children from low income households.

For more details on CACFP, call the Growing Up Healthy Hotline at: 1-800-522-5006.

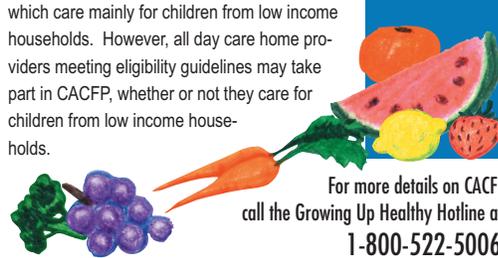

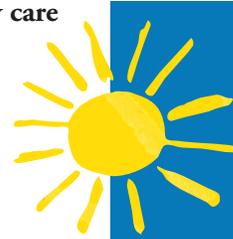

Are you a family day care provider?

You may be eligible for payment for the food and snacks you provide to children in your care.

The New York State Department of Health's CHILD AND ADULT CARE FOOD PROGRAM (CACFP) pays for meals and snacks served to children up to age 13 enrolled in family day care homes. The major focus of CACFP is to serve nutritious meals and snacks in day care homes which care mainly for children from low income households. However, all day care home providers meeting eligibility guidelines may take part in CACFP, whether or not they care for children from low income households.

For more details on CACFP, call the Growing Up Healthy Hotline at: 1-800-522-5006.

Are you a family day care provider?

You may be eligible for payment for the food and snacks you provide to children in your care.

The New York State Department of Health's CHILD AND ADULT CARE FOOD PROGRAM (CACFP) pays for meals and snacks served to children up to age 13 enrolled in family day care homes. The major focus of CACFP is to serve nutritious meals and snacks in day care homes which care mainly for children from low income households. However, all day care home providers meeting eligibility guidelines may take part in CACFP, whether or not they care for children from low income households.

For more details on CACFP, call the Growing Up Healthy Hotline at: 1-800-522-5006.

